

Jason M. Konop, M.D.

Research Summary

Dr. Konop is an instructor of “Human Anatomy” at Skaggs School of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences. He also serves as a Tutor/Facilitator and Senior Learning Skills Counselor with the UC San Diego School of Medicine.

Academic Achievements

University of Wisconsin, B.S. in Psychology (1999), Saint Louis University School of Medicine, Doctor of Medicine (2007).

Teaching

Human Anatomy (SPPS 241)

Key Contributions

M.D. with Distinction in Research - Saint Louis University School of Medicine, St. Louis, Missouri (2007), Summer Research Fellowship Recipient- Mallinckrodt Institute of Radiology, Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis, Missouri, (2003), Exceptional Service Award, Casa Materna, Portici, Italy (1999).

Selected Publications

- Tran Cao, H., Tokin, C., Konop, J., Ojeda-Fournier, H., Chao, J., Blair, S.L., A Preliminary Report on the Clinical Experience with AlloDerm in Breast Reconstruction and its Radiologic Appearance. Am Surg. 2010 Oct;76(10):1123-6
- Derdeyn, Colin; Konop, Jason; Videen, Tom; Grubb, Robert Jr; Powers, William. Effect of Statins on Cerebral Blood Flow in Patients With Atherosclerotic Cerebrovascular Diseases. Abstracts of the 30th International Stroke Conference. Stroke 2005; 36(2):456(P94)